Can I use an octocat on my website?

Maybe! It depends on how you plan to use it. If you are using it to refer to GitHub, such as a link to GitHub that says “Check me out on :octocat:,” that is perfectly fine. However, if you’re using the octocat to refer to a product that is not GitHub, then that is not considered fair use. This goes for all usage situations including but not limited to applications, print material, and websites.
